

Check the guest's LinkedIn:

<https://humberonline.solutions/portfolio/fall-2022-conference/>

Questions for our guests:

- Ben Wise, Google
- Jeanne Marie Castor, Maples Group
- Samantha Ruth, Kepler Communications Inc

Remote Work, Wellness and Productivity:

This session is hosted by the BUS 3003. The students will lead a conversation with our guests on their experience working remotely, in-person and/or in a hybrid fashion, and what their organizations are doing to support employee wellness.

How does your company support employee wellness in a virtual environment?

is it fully remote or hybrid

What are some activities in place to support employee wellness?

Can employee productivity be "measured" in the virtual world? i.e. does your boss really know what you're doing??

How is Google planning to collect data in Europe? After the tighter regulations that has affected Facebook for example if it is hybrid, why decide on hybrid over completely remote

What steps did your company take when the pandemic hit to ensure both customer and employee safety

What support does your employee provide when working remotely?

are there (what are?) the costs associated with supporting employee wellness in-person or remotely?

What research have you done for Google? What does a usual working week look like at Google.

Have you noticed any significant difference in employee productivity in hybrid or remote vs in person?

Is working remotely or hybrid more effective and motivated for employees?

How do you evaluate the provided support for employees? Do your employees complete surveys, assessments to give you feedback?